The Association of American Directory Publishers is composed of reputable City Directory Publishers, organized for the general advancement of the Directory business. Any person, corporation or firm engaged in business as owner and Publisher of a City Directory in the United States or Canada, who shall qualify as competent to gather information and compile a City Directory and furnish satisfactory references, is eligible to membership.

The objects of the Association are:

First. The advancement of the Directory business and the improvement of Directories by the interchange of ideas and the exchange of experienced employes.

Second. To provide protection to the public against fraudulent advertising schemes which operate under the name of Directories, and to drive unprincipled promoters of the same out of the business.

Third. To provide permanent and profitable employment to competent, industrious and honest Directory canvassers and compilers.

Fourth. For the mutual protection and advancement of the established and prospective interests of all who may become members, by personal advice and assistance of members as may be mutually satisfactory, desirable or advisable, and by such other means as may, from time to time, be shown to be wise, proper and lawful.

$100.00 Reward Will be paid by the Association for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons engaged in publishing, collecting or canvassing for any fraudulent or fake directory

INTRODUCTORY

1358787

Another chapter in the growth and development of Indianapolis is here presented in the form of the Indianapolis City Directory for 1913.

It is a "chapter" in name only, for, in reality, it is a volume, complete in itself, and bristling with the facts and data incident to the progress and expansion of "The Greatest Inland City."

Indianapolis has grown materially during 1912 and, in this volume, now presented to the public, the full and complete details of its growth are presented.

First, and definitely, in the line of growth and development stands the city's population—upon the basis of which it takes its certain rank among the great cities of the United States.

Listed in this Directory are the names of 106,774 persons. Based upon this figure, the population of Indianapolis is, at the present time, 266,935. This estimate of the total population is reached by accepting the fact that there are two and one-half inhabitants to every name listed in the Directory. This proportion, it has been demonstrated through experience, is both fair and conservative.

The population of Indianapolis, as estimated in the Directory of 1912, was 260,715.

Thus, in one year, Indianapolis has gained 6,220 in population, and is proceeding steadily toward the temporary goal of 300,000.

New business enterprises have come into existence during the preceding twelve months. Old and established business houses have expanded.

New business buildings, new factory buildings, new homes, new churches and new schools have risen. New people have come. Work has awaited them—and they are busy.

Commercially, the city has prospered. In all of its other phases of life it has kept pace.

And here in the Directory for 1913, in classified and convenient form, may be found the detailed record of the city's growth.

Names, addresses and occupations, both of persons and business enterprises, are carefully listed so that any one of the city's 266,935 inhabitants may be found at a glance.

These, with all other facts have been carefully gathered, compiled, arranged and classified. Every effort has been exerted to obtain accurate and complete information. And, also, it has been our endeavor to present it in a way best calculated to meet the satisfaction and convenience of our patrons.

In the preparation of this volume we have been materially assisted by the cooperation of the people of Indianapolis, who have cheerfully given us the necessary information and facts. For this assistance we offer our hearty thanks.

This company maintains, at its offices, 320-324 American Central Life Building, a Directory Library, in which may be found current copies of the directories of all the larger cities. This library is maintained for the use of our patrons and we urge them to avail themselves of this, as well as any other courtesy at our command.

Indianapolis

Distinctions Which Give the City Supremacy as a Modern Progressive American Community, Furnished and Compiled by the

Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce

Indianapolis is forty miles from the center of population of the United States.

It is in the geographical center of manufacturing of the United States.

It is in population, transportation facilities and volume of business transacted the largest inland city, not on a navigable stream, in the United States.

It has a population of 265,000, with more than 2,000,000 people living within two hours' ride of the city.

It is the capital of Indiana and in the geographical center of the state, with railroad or electric railway connections with every county in the state.

It has an area of 36 square miles.

It is the seat of the following state institutions: Indiana State Fair, Indiana School for the Blind, Indiana School for the Deaf, School of Medicine of Indiana University, the Indiana Girls' School, the Indiana Woman's Prison, the Central Hospital for the Insane.

It has more than 1,200 factories, with 33,000 skilled mechanics employed.

It has twenty-six parks, nearly all public, with 3,000 acres.

It has seventeen steam railroads, connecting directly with all the great cities of the Central West, and also with Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

It has thirteen electric interurban systems, made up of six lines, which in 1912 carried 6,431,714 passengers to and from the city, an average of 17,621 a day, 516 passenger cars being handled each day in the largest and most pretentious interurban station in the United States. Freight cars to the number of 23,896 were also handled by this station.

It has three direct steam roads to the coal fields of Indiana.

It has two steam roads direct to the stone quarries of southern Indiana.

In the output of automobiles it is the second city of America.

It has the greatest motor speedway in the world.

It has one of the best mile tracks for the training and racing of trotting and pacing horses in America.

The total bank and trust company deposits in 1912 amounted to $76,010,058.75. The total resources of these concerns for the year were $104.557,161.23.

The post office receipts last year amounted to $1,386,108.39.

The city has 200 wholesale and jobbing houses, representing all lines of trade, with a market extending well over the Central West.

Indianapolis importations last year amounted to $740,248.

It has 128 miles of streets improved with asphalt, wood block, brick and other materials.

It has 163 miles of city electric car lines, operating over double tracks, with four-cent fare and universal transfers.

The total assessed valuation of Indianapolis property is $218,029,220.

The municipal bonded indebtedness is only $3,403,300.

The city tax rate is only $2.19 on each $100.00.

There were 5,030 births and 3,920 deaths in 1912.

Its building permits in 1912 amounted to $9,150,407.

Its real estate transfers in 1912 amounted to $23,604,434.56.

It has 200 miles of sewers.

It has 348 miles of water mains, using 21,000,000 gallons every day.

It has artificial gas at 60 cents a thousand feet, supplied by two companies.

It has an unrivaled street lighting system.

It has 43,000 telephones, with long distance connections with city, town, and farm throughout the State.

It has one of the most beautiful and best appointed post office buildings in the United States, erected at a cost of $2,000,000.

It has the largest and most inspiring Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument in the world.

It has twenty-five modern office buildings, six to sixteen stories high, and more under construction.

It has a Y. M. C. A. building which the public erected at a cost of $250,000; a Y. W. C. A. building, which the public provided at a cost of $140,000, and is this year building a colored Y. M. C. A. building at a cost of $100,000.

It has 64 public and high school buildings, valued at $4,292,000.

In the John Herron Art Institute, the city has one of the noted art museums of the United States.

In Fort Benjamin Harrison it has one of the largest United States army posts in the country.

It has 73 hotels, which afford living on any scale desired for conventions of any size.

It has exceptional facilities for national conventions and entertains several hundred thousand visitors every year.

It has one of the largest city market houses of the Middle West, which supplies the city with the best products of the country.

It is a city made up largely of home owners, many thousand families occupying their own property.

It is abundantly supplied with apartment houses, large and pretentious.

It is pre-eminently an industrial city because of its geographical location in relation to the general market, because of its exceptional shipping facilities, abundance of labor, freedom from strikes and labor disputes and the nearness of the fuel supply. Coal from the Indiana field is delivered to power plants at about $1.25 a ton.

It has several very large industrial buildings for small manufacturing concerns, which supply space, power and other facilities at reasonable cost.

It has a public library with immeasurable resources, with numerous branches over the city. The reference library in the Indiana State House is one of the largest and best organized to be found in any American commonwealth.

It is bountifully supplied with schools of music, art, for commercal training, and in medicine and dentistry.

It has in the Normal School of the North American Gymnastic Union one of the great training schools for physical directors.

It is generously supplied with pretentious club houses, gymnasiums, theaters, roof gardens.

It supports a public orchestra, numerous musical organizations and societies which are active in the cultural development of the people.

All in all, Indianapolis is in the fore rank as a delightful American city in which to live, for the civic spirit is always aglow in the general advancement of the community, of the people, and of all civic and commercial interests.

STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE

[COPYRIGHT 1913]

THE Street Directory is an alphabetical arrangement of the names of the Streets and Avenues of the city. By the decimal system of numbering houses adopted in this city, one hundred numbers are allotted to each square. On streets running north and south the numbering begins at Washington street. The streets running east and west are numbered East and West from Meridian street. All other streets not commencing at either of the above points are numbered in accordance with this system. The names and numbers of intersecting streets and avenues are given in the order in which they occur, which enables one to tell between what streets a certain number is. For instance, you have 820 Harlan street: by reference to the Street Directory, you find 800 at Lexington av. and 900 at Pleasant street; consequently, the place you wish to find is between Lexington av. and Pleasant street.

The marginal letters of the alphabet refer to the nearest street car line. For example, you wish to go to 520 E. Sixteenth: you refer to Sixteenth street in the Street Directory and find that 520 would be between Central av. and Park av. and the letter "B" in the margin, then by referring to the street railway lines you find the letter "B" is the Central av. line, which is the nearest car.

COURTS.

The United States is divided into nine Judicial Circuits, in each of which a Circuit Court is held for each district within each circuit. The act of Congress approved April 10, 1869, provides as follows: "The Circuit Court in each district shall be held by the Justice of the Supreme Court allotted to the Circuit, or by the Circuit Judge of the Circuit, or by the District Judge of the District, sitting alone, or by the Justice of the Supreme Court and Circuit Judge sitting together, in which case the Justice of the Supreme Court shall preside ,or in the absence of either of them, by the other (who shall preside), and the District Judge." The State of Indiana comprises one Judicial District. The courts of the District are held in Indianapolis, New Albany, Evansville, Fort Wayne and Hammond.
